A Nigerian-born British business magnate, Mr. Onu is renowned for his unparalleled expertise in enterprise development and wealth redistribution. His tenure as a former Presidential Aide in Nigeria laid the foundation for a career that has blossomed into one of global influence. Today, Mr. Khalifah Onu is regarded as a trailblazer whose leadership and strategic vision have shaped industries, changed lives, and uplifted communities.

As the Chairman of Royal CBS Group Limited, he has garnered respect for his innovation, ethical entrepreneurship, and strategic investments. His reputation is defined by a commitment to job creation and economic empowerment, earning him the moniker "The Wing of Freedom." Far from being a wealth hoarder, Mr. Onu is celebrated as a distributor of wealth and creator of opportunities, qualities that distinguish his entrepreneurial journey.

At the core of his philanthropic mission lies the Khalifa & Rukkaiya Foundation, a nonprofit organization devoted to aiding vulnerable populations. Under his leadership, the foundation has launched national programs in elderly care, food empowerment, medical outreaches, and youth skill development—efforts that have tangibly improved the lives of countless individuals.

With a background in Business Management from the United Kingdom, Mr. Onu is a Chartered Director, an Institutional Consultant, and an Associate Member of the African Union Consultants. His professional prowess extends across various sectors, including his role as Chairman of Latins Security Limited, a leading security firm employing over 6,000 personnel, and his position as Director of Special Projects at Global Passport Security Systems, Dubai.

A passionate advocate for sustainable agriculture, Mr. Onu champions the Zero Hunger Campaign. Through his ownership of farms and the establishment of nationwide food initiatives, he is committed to addressing food security. Furthermore, his work in developing herbal remedies and alternative medicines, such as Hogargilem Natural Drink and SapeJazz 55, underscores his dedication to enhancing public health.

Mr. Onu is also the founder of the BirdWatch Foundation, dedicated to bird sanctuary conservation, and the St. Patrick Diabetic Association, which provides material aid and support for individuals affected by diabetes.

In his current role, Mr. Onu serves as the Country Programme Lead and Chairman of the Board of Trustees for the transformative JOBS FOR AFRICA NOW (JFAN) initiative, a renowned platform focused on mass job provision and economic inclusion. His leadership has been instrumental in bringing JFAN to Nigeria, where it aims to revolutionize employment access across the nation's geopolitical zones.

As a passionate advocate for sports, Mr. Onu has played a pivotal role in the revival of Nigeria's sporting ecosystem. He has served as the Lead Consultant and sole Fundraiser for the Nigerian University Games Association (NUGA), which holds the distinction of being the country's oldest and most prestigious inter-university sporting event. His efforts have reinvigorated national interest in NUGA, leading to strategic partnerships and greater participation.

Furthermore, Mr. Onu is championing the All-Nigeria Secondary Schools Sporting Championships Calendar, an initiative aimed at fostering early talent discovery and creating a robust pathway to university sports. This initiative, under the auspices of JFAN's grassroots athletics development, is already being hailed as a game-changing strategy for youth development and sports revitalization.

In his commitment to advancing Nigeria's sporting infrastructure, Mr. Onu is investing in the training of young golfers and caddies at the Moshood Abiola National Stadium in Abuja, where he is overseeing the renovation of the National Golf Course and enhancing its facilities.

Through every endeavor, Mr. Khalifah Onu exemplifies leadership that transcends personal success to drive societal progress. His unique ability to bridge public purpose with private sector innovation has made him one of Africa's most influential grassroots development advocates and a transformative force in business leadership. His visionary approach to nation-building, empowerment, and sustainable growth continues to inspire and reshape the African landscape.
